

New training for clothing/textile distributors

Today's retailers demand no-error distribution, so maintaining quality is vital to protect your retail relationships and avoid costly fines. Now there's a training programme to help.

"Distribution Services for the Textile Industry (DSTI)" is a comprehensive skills programme for your warehousing and distribution employees. The programme consists of a whole range of skills modules, all designed with the help of major clothing and textile distributors, so you know they work. Using these modules, you can construct a tailored training path for employees with different levels of experience, giving them the skills they need to pick, pack and scan accurately, or to carry out supervisory roles in the warehouse.

"This is an industry-focused training programme, leading to a recognised qualification, that is applicable across staff with different levels of education, skill and ability. DSTI is a successful learning formula."

The Stirling Group, clothing supplier to Marks and Spencer.

DSTI is now available to clothing and textile distributors in the East Midlands from the training providers below.

Key Training & Learning Ltd

Contact Tracy Martin on:

Tel. 0115 927 3186

Email tracy@ktl-ltd.co.uk

KTL

Unit 12,
Vision Business Centre,
Firth Way, Off camberley Road,
Bulwell, Nottingham
NG6 8GF

Sign up now, and you could receive funding through the government's Train to Gain skills support programme. Contact your training provider for details.